Abstract

A highly effective Dean plays a marvelous role in the success of creating Quality oriented culture as a Professional Leader, Strategic Thinker, Effective Manager of the Faculty, staff and Students and raises the standards of academic quality. After a detailed review of the prevailing literature about an Effective Dean, this article proposes a conceptual framework that will help out in promoting a healthy culture of effectiveness in the community of Deans. Issues like strategic planning, curriculum, facilities and research are also part of the responsibilities of Effective Deans. Daydreaming 'offers a positive, simultaneous effect on task performance. Through a wide-ranging attributes of Effective Dean, the probable model as mentioned in Figure No. 6.1, uncovers the Planning, Professional, Leadership, and Managerial, scholarly and effective teaching capabilities of Deans. Adopting continuous Improvement strategy, getting accreditation of the relevant Programs at national as well as international level are also the key attributes. The model, if implemented successfully can develop Effective Deans who can run their Schools effectively and the culture of Effective Schooling will ultimately lead towards the creation of a successful Higher Education Institute (HEI).

Day Dreaming Of Highly Effective Dean: An Important Role towards the Success of Higher Educational Institutes (HEI)

AACSB (International - The Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business) conducted a series of Training workshops. The focus of these workshops was those points which can contribute successfully in the practical lives of highly effective Deans.

Anderson, (1999) identified that Schools are always in search of those Deans who can perform up to the entire satisfaction of their Schools. He was also of the viewpoint that if a Dean can perform successfully in a Higher Educational institute (HEI) with effective skills as mentioned below, he / she can change the environment and practical lives of their Schools / institutes.

Although the responsibilities of the title are quite diversified and challenging but definitely, if a Dean adopts the role as a Leader, Strategic Thinker, Professional Manager, Mentor, Trainer, Effective Teacher, promoter of research oriented skills amongst the faculty and students and effective Communicator only then he / she can raise standards of the programs associated with his / her school and their programs can be accredited with National as well as Accreditation councils ultimately giving these schools the edge of well-groomed and reputed Schools in the Higher education sectors. These qualities if adopted in the lives of a Professional Dean can contribute a lot towards the success of the higher Educational institutes (HEIs).

Objectives of the Study

This paper proposes a conceptual framework after going through the literature on the subject. The author assumes that the same model, if implemented in the Higher Educational Institutes (HEIs), can enhance the performance of the relevant HEIs/Schools.

1. To uncover the various capabilities in relation to high quality Deanship. These capabilities include Leadership, Planning & Preparation, School, Faculty and Students

Management, Program assessment, raising academic standards, research oriented skills and teaching effectiveness etc.

2. To propose a conceptual framework describing the impact of key attributes for becoming highly Effective Dean who can play an important role towards the success of HEI.

Literature Review

Chief scholastic officers of Schools, schools and colleges wear different names like Academic Vice Chancellor, Dean of academic affairs, and Dean. Rudolph, (1977) expressed in his study that before the Civil War, the vast majority of the instructive organizations depended on President, a treasurer, and a librarian to satisfy secretarial obligations. Rudolph, (1977) recorded that in 1860 the middle number of heads in American universities was four. This figure developed to 30.5 by 1933.

Compelling Deans must be instructive agents, communicators, supervisors, organizers/investigators, and backers, another key variable for viable leadership starts from the Dean's relational abilities. By using eight ways Deans can accomplish his / her goals:

- (1) Leading research exercises,
- (2) Thoughtfulness and deducting faculty research,
- (3) Assigning time for personnel research,
- (4) Publicizing and giving noteworthy research,
- (5) Pursuing subsidizing for help of Faculty, who are doing research,
- (6) Encouraging solid exploration library advancement,
- (7) Creating outside organization research ventures, and
- (8) Endorsing internal institutional research.

Simala (2014) in his article "Deanship, Leadership Dilemmas and Management Challenges Facing the Social Sciences" portrays that there are numerous clashing requests and impacts on the senior member as leader of a personnel. Driving and dealing with a personnel in contemporary advanced education is an overwhelming errand. He prescribed that significantly more centers be put on the administration and administration of the resources of sociology.

McCaffery, (2010) clarifies in his book on "Compelling initiative and administration in colleges and schools" that the requests made upon advanced education directors are more prominent today than they have ever been. Viability as a college pioneer obliges administrators to ace four crucial requirements. They should know their surroundings; know their college; know their area of expertise; and know themselves as people.

Black, (2015) expressed that Higher Education pioneers require a mix of authority and Administration capabilities so as to address the difficulties confronted in the part; partition of these aspects is counterproductive and won't address the negative effect of managerialism saw inside foundations. Pioneers in advanced education are regularly allocated to authority positions with practically no preliminary administration preparing or improvement and are relied upon to learn at work. The relationship and significance of psychological knowledge (IQ) and enthusiastic insight (EQ) for initiative has been analyzed from a business point of view.

Leadership is a continuous duty of citizenship and it happens in all parts of one's college life. Since a few changes are as neighborhood as presenting or advancing pedagogical open doors and others as Large as changing social needs and conditions. Some must be reacted to by educators in the Context of individual classes, others require the contribution of huge quantities of workforce (curricular amendment, for instance), but then others require additional college exercises, for example, arranging government–university structures.

Consideration now swings to Leadership advancement that spotlights on the Dean's advantage and duty regarding driving the self and a promise to building up a 'common and shared feeling of leadership character'.

Initiative in instructing and learning by scholastics in non-formal parts could be all the more generally advanced and compensated in advanced education. All scholastics in advanced education need to consider receiving cooperative initiative attributes that are prepared to make new societies to bolster quality administration in learning and instructing grant (Hofmeyer, et al., 2015).

The role of academic Dean has recognized developing thought in present day years as the requirement for Quality Management in higher education has gotten to be crucial (Austin, Ahearn, and English, 1997). Business schools organizing to compact with the several contests facing higher education in the twenty-first century necessitate active leadership. Yet, business schools Dean's face in credible stress, as demonstrated by the large number of turnovers that occur each year (OíReilly, Wyatt, 1994). The perceptions of proficient business Deans in relation to the beliefs, roles and approaches of dealing business schools are occasionally obtainable for students and practitioners to use as they seek an indulgent of the factors associated with success or failure in the position of business Dean (Stevens, 2000). In this regard, AACSB International - The Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business has reinstated its New Deans Conference program. During the course of this Conference, a number of recorded interviews with recognized, effective Deans were accompanied and later transcribed.

Anderson, (1999) described that some schools endure to reopen searches for Deans who can encounter their requirements. (Dolan & Schmidt, 1994) were of the viewpoint that usually Deans have only tenure of 4.5 years.

(Wepner et al., 2008) referred to the hypothetical framework about effective Deans which appeared from two past investigations of twelve education Deans. In the first study, six education Deans in their arguments stated about ethical apprehension as thought-provoking requirements of faculty, schools, and communities. This introductory substantiation of ethical constituent in basic leadership was concentrated on utilizing a reproduced model of six more Deans who were interviewed alongside the first six Deans. In the second study, both of the gatherings of Deans were addressed anticipated to decide their skillfulness and individual encounters. On the basis of detailed research of the literature surveys, as mentioned in the articles of various authors in Section 7.0, following 11 themes were supported:

- (1) Allows perplexity, unpredictability, and ambiguity;
- (2) Surpasses divergences and realizes authenticity as composite and contrary;
- (3) Distinguishes that they function differently in different roles,
- (4) Set Vision and performance standards;
- (5) Expresses methodologies passionately
- (6) Recognizes internal clashes between faculty and staff members
- (7) Manages conflict rather than disregards it or plans it;
- (8) Managing the academic and administrative staff with regards to their roles and responsibilities;
- (9) Makes health competition between the relevant staff and faculty members;
- (10) Grasps to comprehensive community principles; and
- (11) Comprehend suggestions as a prospect to negotiate different viewpoints in order to achieve sufficient outcomes.

Much literature about Deans emphasizes on realistic, organizational, and appropriate influences that gives impact their efficiency Bowen, 1995; Dejnozka, 1978; Geiger, 1989; Gmelch, 1999; Heald, 1982; Huffman-Joley, 1992; Wepner et al., (2015); Martin, 1993; Riggs & Huffman, 1989; Wolverson et al., (2001). Deans have to exercise abilities and policies in order to overcome the conflicts between various stakeholders (Wepner et al., (2008).

These academic administrators provide leadership, establish the departmental culture, which ideally includes a supportive and collaborative atmosphere, identify the means of increasing operational effectiveness, and are ultimately accountable for departmental performance (Bryman, 2007; Sahney et al., 2004). Typically academic administrators are selected from the faculty ranks. Del Favero, (2006) primarily because they have excelled as scholars, and less as the result of having held previous leadership positions, possessing managerial experience, or having demonstrated leadership abilities (Bryman, 2007). Yet, research has shown that the majority of faculty is often dissatisfied with their administrators' leadership effectiveness (Sotirakou, 2004).

Methodology

Through the literature Survey including Haden et al., (2015); Rich et al., (2008); Calderhead, (1989); O'Reilly, (1994), Key attributes of Highly Effective Deans have been identified.

After a thorough and detailed analysis of the literature review about the key attributes of highly effective Deans from the Research papers as mentioned in References (Section 7.0), the author proposed a Conceptual framework as described in Figure No. 6.1. This proposed framework uncovers the capabilities of a highly effective Dean, and which if implemented in its true letter and spirit, ultimately can contribute a lot towards the success of the higher Educational institute (HEI).

This methodology has been chosen to give a role model to the Deans working in Higher Educational Institutes (HEIs). After detailed study of the literature, the author proposed a framework which can be helpful for the improvement in HEI's success.

Key Attributes of Highly Effective Deans

Leadership

Dean must have an established high level aptitude to provide leadership, to stimulate and produce a unifying sense of purpose even in times of change, challenge and uncertainty and to provide administration to a varied range of senior academic and professional staff in order to encourage, progress, authorize and train staff to obtain brilliance in presentation and the accomplishment of University and Faculty outcomes, including a demonstrated ability to build effective high performance executive and management teams (Nyangau, 2014; Odhiambo, 2011).

As a senior leader of the University, he/she ought to be fit for advancing the accomplishment of the University's main goal, objectives and targets and playing a main part in guaranteeing the Faculty adds to the strategic plans and results of the University. This also includes the monitoring of achievement of any applicable key performance indicators (KPIs) at Faculty level, in a consistent, cooperative and collaborative approach. Maintains and develops a practicing role in the teaching program. Design and coordinate student leadership programs. The source of the difficulty lies in the fact that leadership is an endless subject Carless, et al., (2000).

An effective Dean as a leader in growth agenda, and managing change necessitated by the University's strategic directions must have a proven capacity to work across organizational boundaries to achieve agreed corporate outcomes. Sound understanding of the relevant higher educational issues and the potential implications of these encourages new program improvement or project development inside the School according to administrative power terms and conditions.

Arranges yearly evaluation of understudying learning results with CODs and program chiefs – meets the school accreditation necessity that understudy learning is being surveyed; guarantees that understudies are accomplishing fancied results.

Discussion and Conclusion

After having gone through the literature on the said topic, the author uncovers: There are various roles of highly effective and efficient Deans. These roles and capabilities include Leadership, Planning & Preparation, School, Faculty and Students Management, Program assessment, raising academic standards, research oriented skills and teaching effectiveness etc.

The author proposes a conceptual framework for a Dean to be highly effective in his / her discipline and the author assumes that if implemented in the Higher Educational Institutes (HEIs), can enhance the performance excellence of the relevant HEIs through effective and efficient role of Dean. If all the Deans of a higher Educational Institute will be having and exercising Qualities as prescribed above will contribute towards the creation of a highly professional, leadership oriented, organized, planned, well managed, Visionary and research oriented culture with effective, efficient, dedicated and committed teams of highly effective Faculty and staff members which are the key contributors towards the success of any higher educational institute (HEI).

Daydreaming 'offers a positive, simultaneous effect on task performance. The proposed Conceptual model (Figure No. 6.1) enlightens about the Key attributes for a Highly effective Dean and dreaming and implementing those attributes can contribute a lot towards the success of the higher Educational institute (HEI).

This culture also supports raising academic standards which ultimately leads towards the accreditation of programs with relevant national as well as international accreditation agencies. Having valid accreditations with these agencies can create a voice in the public about the satisfaction of students, alumni, employers and above all the community which ultimately can raise the enrollments as well.
