

O-Week-19

The mission of Orientation program is to ensure best transitional experiences, in a bid to maximize participants' potential for both personal and academic success. OPRM now PRS, ORG is dedicated to the success of our participants and plays an integral role in building a close-knitted community to celebrate diversity and strengthen both internal and external relationships. We aim to produce leaders that are committed to pursue their academic and professional endeavors with unwavering zeal, integrity and passion.

UMT arranges an orientation program for new participants, twice a year. The program is executed through the coordinated efforts of both academics and management offices, however, PRS and Orientation Committee are responsible for the overall planning, organizing, leading and controlling of the program. Each school/institute is responsible for the execution of their respective orientation program. Nominated personnel from schools and departments share pertinent information on policies and procedures with the participants to make their transition phase smooth.

This time, O-Week-19 was divided into two parts:

1. 360 Degree Transformation Program (September 23-27, 2019 and September 30-October 4, 2019)
2. Face-to-Face stage School/Institute wise (October 7-11, 2019 and three full day events by OPA)
