MESSAGE OF THE PATRON

As the Institute of Liberal Arts (ILA) continues to grow in terms of academic accomplishments, research publications, co-curricular and extra-curricular activities, and a number of brilliant students and competent faculty and staff members, we felt a timely need to launch our own newsletter. This initiative will serve as a useful tool to share with you our achievements, activities, and events that truly demonstrate what we are and what we do. Information sharing is one of the best ways to reach out to our colleagues from other schools and universities and pool up resources for useful collaborations and design activities and devise plans for activities of mutual interest. I am positive that our team, responsible for the collection and projection of content from all three units of ILA and its publication, will be able to highlight the best that happens at ILA, track its progress, and make a meaningful impact on its readers.

Best wishes,

Dr Nadia Anwar
Acting Dean, ILA

WELCOME NOTE BY THE EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Welcome to the first newsletter from ILA! The Institute of Liberal Arts, or ILA, is a happening place on the UMT campus. Every student in the university is affiliated with us in some way through three compulsory English language courses, while many departments also offer foreign language courses through ILA's Center for Languages (CFL). And then we have our own students in the BS, MPhil, and PhD programs at the Department of English & Literary Studies (DELS) and the Department of Linguistics and Communications (DLC). In this newsletter - hopefully, the first of many more - you will find some of the activities of our students and faculty over the last year. We are busy in numerous ways - presenting our work at conferences, arranging events and webinars, enjoying poetry and student presentations, and of course teaching, researching, and writing. You can catch a glimpse of all this in the pages that follow, and our teachers hope to continue this tradition of hard work and dedication in the coming semesters. I am indebted to my colleagues including Sarah Azam, Minaam Butt, Zain-ul-Abidin, and Naheed Ashfaq who have compiled the information, and Iqra Yaqub has put this newsletter together. I also thank our colleagues at OCM who have worked hard to make this first issue a memorable one, and finally, the Dean of ILA, Dr Nadia Anwar for her support and initiative in starting this tradition at ILA.
