

This abstract book includes research outlooks of MPhil and Ph.D. graduates on endangered languages, current English language teaching trends, language acquisition, translation studies, translanguaging, and social media. The book has been apportioned into a gamut of general linguistics topics for the readers interested in exploring specific linguistics areas. Each abstract addresses a crucial area of linguistics that adds to the existing research body in many ways. Let me wish you a happy reading of the abstract book on various linguistic research fields at DLC.
